MESSAGE FROM THE CHIEF JUSTICE AND THE ADMINISTRATOR OF THE COURTS

*H*afa Adai! We are proud to share with you the 2011 Annual Report of the Judiciary of Guam. Inside, you will find judicial information, useful statistics, program summaries, performance reports, and a review of judiciary events and activities.

In the years preceding 2011, the Judiciary of Guam experienced unprecedented growth, significant advancements in its administration and operations, and our transformation as the third co-equal branch of Guam's government. We have demonstrated that we are effective and efficient in ensuring that the people of Guam have their "day in court." The Supreme Court of Guam matured as the Court of Last Resort, leading wide scale modernization and improvement of the Guam Judiciary in an era of declining budgets, population increases, and new approaches in the administration of justice.

The Judiciary is focused on planning for the future, modernizing court operations, and developing court staff. We have introduced and sustained therapeutic approaches to address cases and have sought to inform and educate the general public through community outreach and fostering community partnerships.

We invite you to review this information and to take an active interest in justice.

Judiciary of Guam

On August 1, 1950, President Truman signed into law the Organic Act of Guam. This Act accorded Guam the status of territory and established for the citizens of Guam a Bill of Rights, similar to that found in the United States Constitution. The Organic Act established the foundation for Guam's modern local government, affording the people of Guam the first meaningful opportunity in more than three centuries to set and administer policy and laws for themselves.

The Organic Act vested the judicial authority of Guam in the District Court of Guam and such other courts as created by the laws of Guam. In 1950, the Guam Legislature introduced the "Judiciary Act," strengthening and reorganizing the island court system. This act gave the Island Court of Guam jurisdiction over misdemeanors and civil cases having a value of less than $2,000, and created a Police Court with jurisdiction over certain misdemeanor crimes. The Act also created a court to deal with petty offenses, in which the maximum punishment did not exceed a five dollar fine, presided over by the commissioner of each municipality.

The District Court had jurisdiction over local cases as well as federal cases concerning the Constitution, treaties, and federal law. Appeals from the District Court went to the Court of Appeals of the Ninth Circuit and from there to the U.S. Supreme Court. The District Court also served as the court of appeals for cases decided by the island courts. For the first time, Guam's judiciary exercised certain powers independently of the Executive Branch. Before this time, no appeal of a local decision was possible beyond the Naval Governor of Guam.

The Superior Court of Guam, as we know it today, was created 24 years after the signing of the Organic Act, when the Guam Legislature passed the Court Reorganization Act of 1974. The Superior Court was given jurisdiction over all cases arising out of Guam laws, while the District Court retained its appellate function. The Island Court and the Police Court were both subsumed into the Superior Court of Guam. Former Chief Judge of the Island Court Joaquin Perez became Guam's first Presiding Judge on July 1, 1974, and the Judges assigned to the Island Court and Police Court were then assigned to the Superior Court.

As Guam's population increased, so did the need to expand court operations. In 1987, the first of the specialty courts was created when the Family Court was established to address juvenile crime. By 1991, the need to physically expand was met with the construction of the Guam Judicial Center. In 1994, the Legislature expanded the number of Superior Court judges to 7 to effectively address the rapidly increasing case load. Other specialty courts were established within the Superior Court to address specific cases such as the Juvenile Drug Court (2002), Adult Drug Court (2004), Mental Health Court (2009), and DWI Court (2011).

The Court Reorganization Act of 1974 also established the first Supreme Court of Guam and on October 10, 1974, Presiding Judge Perez became Chief Justice of Guam. The court's existence was short-lived. In the 1977 case Territory of Guam v. Olsen, 431 U.S. 195 (1977), the U.S. Supreme Court found that the Organic Act did not authorize the transfer of appellate jurisdiction from the District Court of Guam, and the locally established Supreme Court of Guam was abolished.

It took another act of Congress to pave the way for the establishment of the Guam Supreme Court. The Omnibus Territories Act of 1984 amended Guam's Organic Act to allow the Guam Legislature to create an appellate court to hear all cases in Guam over which any court established by the Constitution and laws of the United States does not have exclusive jurisdiction. The Act provided that for the first 15 years after establishment of that court, the Ninth Circuit would maintain judicial overview in the appeals process. In all other aspects, the appeals process would be the same as each state. The Omnibus Territories Act, however, was silent on exactly how the newly created judicial system would be administered.

In 1986, Guam voters approved Article 4 of the Guam Commonwealth Act which sought nondiscriminatory, state-like treatment for Guam's courts and the elimination of the review process of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals mandated by the Omnibus Territories Act of 1984. Although 'Guam's Quest for Commonwealth Status' never resulted in a change in Guam's political status or establishment of a new governmental framework, local leaders continued the push for the independence and supremacy of Guam's courts.

In December 31, 1992, led by Legislative Judiciary Committee Chairwoman Pilar C. Lujan, the 21st Guam Legislature unanimously passed Public Law 21-147, the Frank G. Lujan Memorial Court Reorganization Act, reestablishing the Supreme Court of Guam. Because the Guam Supreme Court was not created directly by the Organic Act but instead by the Guam Legislature, it proved to be vulnerable to the winds of political change. In March 1996, only hours after the first Justices of the Supreme Court of Guam were sworn-in, the Legislature passed a bill that removed from the Supreme Court certain inherent powers of administrative authority over the local Judiciary.

Guam's leaders who envisioned the Judiciary as an independent branch of government continued to pursue this goal.

Guam Delegate Robert A. Underwood introduced H.R. 2370, the Judicial Empowerment Act of 1997, in the 105th Congress. The legislation would amend the Organic Act of Guam and establish the Judiciary as a truly independent, co-equal branch of the government of Guam and federally establish the Office of the Attorney General of Guam. The bill was amended and only the portion relating to the Office of Attorney General was passed.

Congressman Underwood would introduce subsequent legislation vesting judicial authority in a "Unified Judicial System" headed by the Supreme Court of Guam in the 106th (H.R. 4031, March 2000) and 107th (H.R. 521, February 2001) Congresses. United States Senator Daniel Akaka of Hawaii introduced companion legislation in the Senate Chamber of the 107th Congress (S. 2823, July 2002).

On April 11, 2003, the 27th Guam Legislature, led by Legislative Judiciary Chairman F. Randall Cunliffe, passed Substitute Bill No. 48(COR) to Re-organize the Judiciary as the Third Co-Equal and Independent Branch of the Government of Guam, reconstituting the Judicial Council as Head of a Unified Judiciary with the Chief Justice of Guam presiding. The legislation was vetoed on April 25, 2003.

In the first year of her term, Guam Delegate Madeleine Z. Bordallo introduced H.R. 2400 (June 2003) in the 108th Congress. By October 31, 2003, the 27th Guam Legislature overrode the veto and enacted Bill No. 48(COR) into law as Public Law 27-31. A Unified Judiciary was finally established.

This effort culminated in an amendment to the Organic Act that provided for separation of powers. On October 30, 2004, H.R. 2400 (Pub. L. 108-378) became federal law and the Judiciary of Guam was placed on equal footing with the Executive and Legislative Branches of the Territory of Guam. As an independent branch, the Judiciary would be more capable of safeguarding individual rights and liberties, which history instructs must be immune from political instability.

In January 2006, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals dismissed Santos v. Guam, a case that had already been decided by the Supreme Court of Guam, thereby confirming for the first time that the Ninth Circuit no longer had jurisdiction to hear appeals from Guam courts. Since then, appeals from decisions of the Supreme Court of Guam have been subject to review only by the United States Supreme Court. The Supreme Court of Guam has officially taken its place as an equal of other states' highest courts.

Northern Court Satellite Eases Access to Justice

Since opening its doors in 2009, the Judiciary of Guam's Northern Court Satellite ("NCS"), housed in the Dededo Mall commercial facility, has provided a broad complement of court functions and services to the people of Guam. Primarily established to provide easier access to the courts for the island's most populated villages as well as to alleviate the overcrowded conditions at the Guam Judicial Center in Hagåtña, patrons of NCS can obtain court clearances, appear in traffic court, pay traffic fines, resolve small claims matters, deal with juvenile matters, and attend initial appearances. Additionally, several times a year, the public can observe an appellate oral argument at NCS as the northern facility hosts the Supreme Court of Guam for one of its cases each appellate session.

JUDICIAL COUNCIL: COMPOSITION, HISTORY, 2011 JC RESOLUTIONS

The Judicial Council is composed, by law, of all full-time justices of the Supreme Court, the Presiding Judge of the Superior Court, and a delegated Superior Court Judge. The powers of the Judicial Council include recommendation of policies for the administration of the judicial branch, and administration of the merit system for the judicial branch, including hearing all classified employee appeals. The current composition of the Judicial Council was created in 2003, and then in 2004, the Organic Act of Guam was amended by the United States Congress in P.L. 108-378, making the Judicial Branch a separate and co-equal branch of government. New section 1424-1(b) of the Organic Act put all supervisory authority of the judicial branch into the hands of the Chief Justice of Guam. Together, the Chief Justice, advised by the Judicial Council, govern the many branches and divisions of the Judiciary.

The Judicial Council meets once a month for its regular meeting. In its advisory capacity, in 2011, the Judicial Council adopted 29 Judicial Council resolutions, all of which can be located on the Judiciary's website. These resolutions range from ceremonial functions, such as a memorialization of the retirement of CNMI Chief Justice Demapan and thanking him for his service to Guam courts, to nuts-and-bolts functions, such as consideration of the Hay Study. All Judicial Council meetings are open to the public and are an excellent way to keep up with the issues and trends involved in running the third branch of government.

Members of the Judicial Council:
Chief Justice F. Philip Carbullido, Chairperson
Justice Robert J. Torres
Justice Katherine A. Maraman
Presiding Judge Alberto C. Lamorena III
Judge Arthur R. Barcinas

The Jury Commissioner's Unit is responsible for ensuring and coordinating the availability of grand jurors and petit jurors for matters in the Superior Court, and therefore, plays a critical role in ensuring the constitutional rights of those accused of crimes. The right to a jury is guaranteed by the Constitution, and this unit is essential to the criminal justice system. In 2011, 11,963 petit and grand jurors were present at orientations, selection and court proceedings, a decrease of 9% from 2010, but an increase of 32% from 2007.

SUPERIOR COURT OF GUAM TIME STANDARDS REPORT

On September 15, 2006, the Supreme Court of Guam, through its Administrative Rule 06-011, adopted time standards intended to govern both the efficient movement of cases "from start to finish" through the trial court (Case Age Time Standards), and the prompt disposition of matters taken under advisement within cases while they remain open and active (Under Advisement Time Standards).

- 100% of Criminal Cases are to be concluded within 12 Months
- 100% of Non-Criminal cases are to be concluded within 18 Months

2011 Time Standards Report

Approximately 6,800 new cases are filed each year and distributed among the 7 Superior Court Judges. Many of those cases are promptly processed and concluded. Data prepared late in 2011, showed that approximately 1,920 Open and Active cases remained on the regular dockets of the 7 judges, of which 306 were open and active cases from previous years. Additionally, 1,219 open and active cases assigned to various Specialty Court dockets. At the end of 2011, there were approximately 3,139 open and active cases before the Superior Court of Guam.

The Marshals Division is responsible for security of the courthouse facilities, judicial officers, and court employees. The Marshals Division also must personally serve certain court documents, including warrants and restraining orders. In 2011, there was a slight increase in the number of traffic warrants served by deputy marshals, as compared to 2010.

In addition to these duties, throughout 2011, the Marshals Division conducted training for court personnel and other law enforcement agencies, including the Department of Corrections, Department of Agriculture's conservation officers, and Guam Department of Education's school attendance officers. Marshals also provided outreach to more than 1,500 students of the island's schools, from primary school age to college level.

The Marshal of the Courts is Edward Toves. The Deputy Chief Marshal is Joseph Leon Guerrero.

PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE

The Judiciary updated its long-range strategic plan in late 2011 with funding from the State Justice Institute and assistance from Dr. Brenda J. Wagenknecht-Ivey, CEO of PRAXIS Consulting, Inc. The leadership of the Judiciary decided to review and update its strategic plan in light of challenging economic times, growing population, escalating service demands and other trends.

“A Direction for the Future: The Strategic Plan for the Guam Judiciary 2012-2015” is the culmination of the 2011 strategic planning process. It sets forth an updated blueprint for improving justice and court services over the next couple of years. This plan will help the Judiciary make improvements in key areas while using its limited resources efficiently and effectively in the years ahead.

Mission

The Judiciary’s purpose is to administer justice by interpreting and upholding the laws, resolving disputes in a timely manner, and providing accessible, efficient, and effective court services.

The courts will:

1. Resolve matters and provide court services in a timely and efficient manner;
2. Be user friendly, understandable, accessible, and affordable to court users through the use of innovative resources and practices;
3. Have sufficient resources to support operations, programs, and services;
4. Develop highly skilled and satisfied judges and personnel; and
5. Be cost effective, accountable, and fiscally responsible.

Core Values

- Professionalism
- Integrity
- Excellence

The Judiciary's annual strategic initiatives and projects, which are an outgrowth of this Strategic Plan, are presented in a separate document entitled: "2012 Strategic Projects: A Companion to the 2012-2015 Strategic Plan. The Judiciary will update the companion document annually as it reassesses and establishes new strategic priorities/projects to achieve this Plan.

A Strategic Planning Task Force consisting of Justices, Judges, court managers, staff, and external partners participated in a retreat on November 7 and 9, 2011 at the Hilton Resort & Spa Guam, facilitated by NCSC Consultant Dr. Brenda Wagenknecht-Ivey.

Court Survey

The strategic planning process included surveying: (1) attorneys and external partners; (2) court users/litigants; and (3) judicial officers and court employees. The survey results were used by the Judiciary's strategic planning committee in November 2011 to assess the performance of the Judiciary, update its long-range goals, and establish future priorities.

The survey was administered in late September and early October 2011. 1,231 people completed the surveys.

Ratings on Important Dimensions of the Judiciary's Performance

Modernizing Court Operations

In an era where declining revenues and budgets are the norm rather than the exception, the Judiciary must be innovative and focused on effective outcomes and greater efficiencies.

Case Management System (Justware)

With funding from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act and the U.S. Department of Interior and assistance from the National Center for State Courts, a significant effort has been placed on the implementation of a new Case Management System that will integrate court information and data. The CMS Project, Phase I, was completed on September 30, 2011, with an operational and fully implemented system. "Go Live" for Phase I occurred on October 10, 2011. Phase I was funded under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, U.S. Department of Education, State Fiscal Stabilization Fund Project, through Office of the Governor of Guam.

With an additional $3.7M in FY2011 Compact Impact monies received in late 2010 from U.S. Department of Interior, the Judiciary began implementing Phase II of the CMS Project in early 2011, fulfilling our commitment to enhance services in the 21st century. When completed, the new CMS will fully automate court operations on an unprecedented level, and will permit greater productivity and efficiency, an absolute benefit in these fiscally challenging times. Commencing October 2011, Phase II will encompass start-up and initial hardware and software installation of the core Financial Management and HR/Payroll implementation activities. These upgrades translate to improved customer services with the infrastructure and technology to enable on-line payments.

Phase I incorporated the following modules:

- Calendaring
- Superior Court, Criminal (Felonies and Misdemeanors), Juvenile (Juvenile Delinquency, Juvenile Proceedings, Juvenile Corrections), and Traffic Cases
- Therapeutic Courts (Adult Drug Court, Juvenile Drug Court, Mental Health Court, Family Violence Court, Driving While Intoxicated Court)
- Probation Services Division and Guam Sex Offender Registry
- Client Services and Family Counseling Division
- Financial Management Division, as it relates to fines, fees and restitution
- Marshals Division

Phase II incorporates the following modules:

- Supreme Court
- Superior Court Civil Cases (Civil, Divorce, Protective Order, Probate, Land Registration, Special Proceedings, Adoption, Child Support, and Foreign Orders)
- Public Guardian
- E-filing to serve both Superior Court and Supreme Court
- Jury Management
- Financial Management Division (on-line payments)
- Human Resources Division
- Procurement and Facilities Management Division
- Court Programs (Federal Grants Management)
- Criminal Justice Information System
- Department of Revenue and Taxation – Traffic Interface
- Miscellaneous Judicial Matters (Board of Law Examiners, Guam Bar Association, Ethics Prosecutor, Special Process Servers)

E- FILING

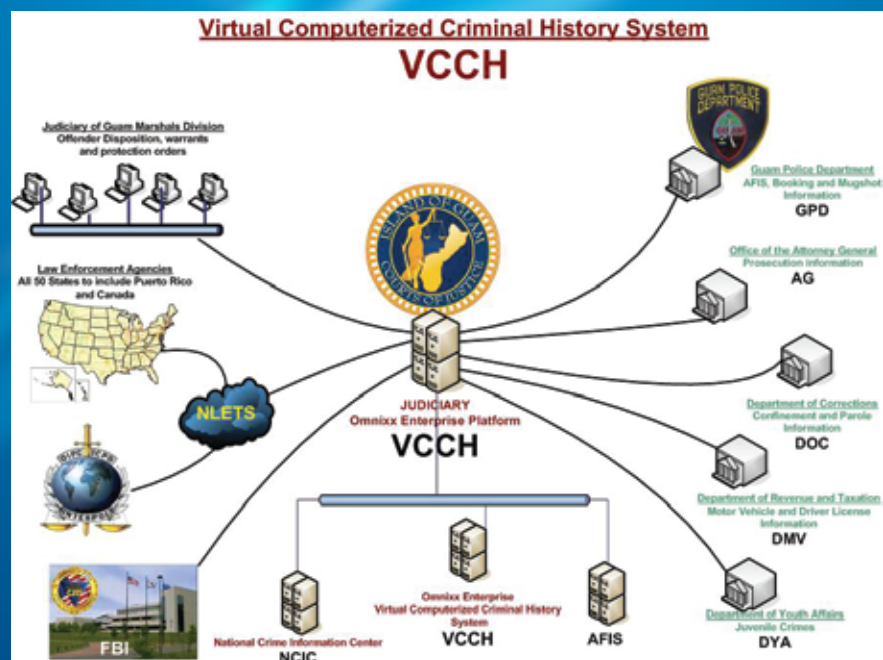

The creation and development of our Case Management System directly corresponds with preparing for the upcoming implementation of electronic filing (e-filing). Electronic filing is the process of transmitting documents and other court information to the court through an electronic medium, rather than on paper. Using the electronic process will enable staff to accomplish more work by allowing them to send and receive documents, receive filing fees, notify other parties, receive court notices, and retrieve court information through a case system.

A significant aspect of electronic filing is to ensure that our Judiciary is in line with other jurisdictions regarding trends on preservation, access, and research. With the full implementation of electronic filing, the data sharing, transmittal of documents, dissemination of information, and the archiving of official case pleadings will be greatly improved in our jurisdiction.

CJIS Integration Project Virtual Computerized Criminal History Records (VCCH) System.

Following the establishment of the Criminal Justice Automation Commission (CJAC) in 1993, the Criminal Justice Information System Project has been a collaborative effort among Guam's criminal justice entities. Funding is secured under a Recovery Act Edward Byrne Justice Assistance Grant in 2009 from the Bureau of Statistics and Plans, with most of the integration project's framework completed. Additional funding by BSP has also been approved to maintain the system. The project is expected to be launched in April 2012, the culmination of close to two decades of planning and work.

The system will be comprised of a message switch and a Virtual Computerized Criminal History Records (VCCH) system. When completed, Guam will finally have a fully integrated Criminal Justice Information System that will ensure criminal history records are complete, accurate and timely, and will include arrest data, prosecutorial data, conviction data, and correctional status data. This project will aid in public safety efforts at the local and national level. The project completion date is expected to be April 30, 2012.

Pursuant to the Adam Walsh Act enacted by Congress in 2006, the Judiciary performs the function as the Sex Offender Registry for Guam.

In 2011, it was announced during the Sex Offender Monitoring, Apprehending, Registering and Tracking annual workshop in Washington D.C., that Guam had been approved by the U.S. Department of Justice as the first Territory to be compliant with the Adam Walsh Act. This was the result of collaborative work among the Judiciary, the Guam Legislature, with assistance from the Attorney General and other executive branch agencies, in modifying Guam's sex offender registry laws, which were subsequently enacted as Public Law 30-223. Citizens can easily access the registry at www.guamcourts.org under "Additional Sites" and "Sex Offender Registry."

National Crime Information Center (NCIC)

National Crime Information Center, is a database managed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Division. The CJIS Division manages a few systems: NCIC 2000, Interstate Identification Index (III), and the National Instant Criminal Background Check (NICS).

- The Judiciary of Guam became the Criminal Justice Systems Agency on January 1, 2002 with the overall responsibility for the administration and usage of the NCIC within the territory. The CSA's responsibility is to include all criminal and civil applicant fingerprint card submissions to the FBI and to maintain a Criminal History repository of dispositions submitted to the FBI-CJIS Division. Benefits to Guam law enforcement
- The National Crime Information Center is a computerized database of documented criminal justice information available to law enforcement agencies nationwide. NCIC operates under a shared-management concept between the FBI and local, state, tribal and federal criminal justice agencies. Benefits include information on wanted persons, convicted sexual offenders, missing persons, stolen vehicles, stolen guns, protection order files and known suspected terrorist files. This allows law enforcement officers and criminal justice personnel to access hot files to enhance their criminal investigations and officer safety.

Facilities

The Guam Judicial Center, constructed in 1991, is a three-story facility containing the Supreme Court and support facilities, seven Superior Court trial courtrooms, one Judicial Hearings courtroom, a Grand Jury courtroom and administrative facilities.

There are four existing structures on the site including the main Judiciary of Guam facility, the Annex building (original Superior Court building), the Guam Law Library and the Red Cross building. The Annex building is the original judiciary facility of Guam, and served as the courthouse for both the Superior and Supreme Courts of Guam. The Annex presently houses the Probation Services Division and the Office of the Public Guardian.

- Air Conditioner Replacement Project (Phase II)

- In FY 2011, the Judiciary began the final phase of replacing the entire air conditioner system in the Judicial Complex. The final phase (PH III) includes the replacement of the Old Superior Court chillers and air handling units. The newly installed air conditioning units are more energy efficient and are controlled and monitored by an Air Condition Direct Digital Control (DDC) System with features that further reduce energy cost. The cost of the final phase of the project is $319,555.00 and was completed in January 2012. The contractor for this project is J&B Modern Tech and the Project Consultant is Albert H. Tsutsui, A.I.A., Inc. Total cost of the entire project Phase I through III is $1,209,623.00.

- Light Retrofit Project – In partnership with the Guam Energy Office, the Judiciary awarded a contract to Kinden Corporation to replace existing lights in the Judicial Center Complex buildings with energy efficient lights. The project is based on an energy audit completed on November 12, 2010. Another cost-saving aspect of this project involves installing motion sensor lights in strategic locations throughout the Judicial Center. These lights are activated only as-needed, when movement in the area triggers electricity to the light unit. Throughout 2011, pre-wiring efforts began, with installation of new energy efficient lighting to follow in early 2012. This project was possible through 100% federal funding from the FY 2009 Energy Conservation Project grant, awarded by the Guam Environmental Protection Agency, Guam Energy Office. Grant amount for this project is $568,188.00. The Project Consultant for this project is RIM Architects.

- Elevator Replacement & Upgrades – High occupancy and usage rate of the Judicial Center Complex required that the Judiciary either replace or upgrade its elevators. Four utility elevators were upgraded and two public elevators were replaced with modern state of the art technology and equipment. The elevators are now equipped with technology found in modern buildings and are connected to a remote communication line that is monitored at all times in case of breakdowns or to alert responders to elevator emergencies. Cost of this project is $384,000.00.

- MIS Electrical Upgrade – In anticipation of the installation of the new Judiciary Case Management System, the Judiciary upgraded the electrical infrastructure of the MIS Center. As a result of the electrical upgrade, additional computers and ancillary equipment can be installed without fear of electrical malfunctions. The contractor for this project was Western Pacific Electric, Inc., and the Project Consultant is Albert H. Tsutsui, A.I.A., Inc. The cost for this project is $18,080.00.

Pacific Judicial Council

The Pacific Judicial Council (“PJC”) comprised of the Judiciaries of Guam, the CNMI, the Federated States of Micronesia, Palau, and American Samoa held its Biennial Conference in April 2011. The Conference, which was hosted by the Palau Judiciary, was well-attended by judicial officers and attorneys from the Pacific. The Conference featured off-island presenters Judge J. Clifford Wallace, Judge Daniel P. Ryan, Retired Judge Donna J. Hitchens, Judge M. Margaret McKeown, Associate Professor Kathleen Burch, and Stephen V. Armstrong. The Conference included training on various topics such as: juvenile sentencing, evidentiary issues, constitutional law issues, an opinion writing seminar, and ethics. It was also an occasion for the election of PJC Executive Board officers.

The current officers for the PJC Executive Board are:

Chief Justice F. Philip Carbullido – President
Chief Justice Camillo Nokat – Vice-President
Justice Alexandro C. Castro – Acting Secretary
Chief Judge Frances Tydingco-Gatewood - Treasurer

Justice Robert J. Torres – PJC Education Committee Chair
Chief Justice Cyprian Manmaw – PJC Education Committee Co-chair

The PJC continues to expand its Court Interpreter program and held its third Court Interpreter Training in the CNMI. The training allowed interpreters from the neighboring islands an opportunity to learn about the program and were trained in various languages such as Chuukese, Yapese, Korean, Chamorro, Vietnamese and Marshallese.

Employee Recognition Program

The Judiciary remains proud of the work and commitment of its employees. Each year, as part of the Employee Recognition Program ("ERP") Judiciary employees who truly exemplify the spirit of professionalism and excellence long admired in the Judiciary are recognized for their outstanding work. The ERP is also an occasion to enhance employee morale through sports events and a talent and cooking competition. Judge Vernon P. Perez chaired the ERP and Judge Michael J. Bordallo chaired the sports committee. Many of the Judiciary employees participated in the events held and nominations for the Justice Awards program were received from almost all the divisions within the Judiciary. Of those nominated, the following were selected and recognized at the awards ceremony.

Alternative Dispute Resolution Conference

Developing Court Staff

The Judiciary continues to ensure it maintains a satisfied and knowledgeable workforce in order to provide excellent services to the public. Throughout 2011 Judiciary employees participated in training and educational opportunities including: Alternative Dispute Resolution, Judicious Use of Deadly Force, Evidence-based Practices for Effective Case Management, Criminal Justice and Public Safety, Grants Management, and Court Management Training.

CMS Training

Of significance in 2011 was the extensive training for the Judiciary's new Case Management System - JustWare. In anticipation of the completion and integration of Phase I of the CMS Project Judiciary employees were trained by Hewlett Packard staff. An onsite administrator was assigned to conduct training for the Subject Matter Experts ("SMEs").

SMEs in each division were trained on how to create business rules, generate documents and reports on cases, incorporate case information into the new system, and most importantly became familiar with the JustWare interface and navigation. Although Phase I of the project went live in October 2011, the JustWare experts continue to provide extensive training to Judiciary staff to address any issues with Phase I and in anticipation of the launch of Phase II in October 2012.

Law Enforcement Training

In 2011, Law Enforcement officers in the Marshals Division and Probation Division attended training which included: O.C. pepper spray, collapsible baton, Judicious use of deadly force, basic officer survival, Tactical weapons simulator training also known as judgmental shooting, High risk response training, Basic firearms, Riot control, Firearms familiarization, Firearms qualification, Close quarter battle, Tactical tracking, and Long arms. Certified First Aid and CPR officers from the Marshals Division also provided training to more than 100 Judiciary employees in CPR/First Aid/Automated External Defibrillator (AED).

Throughout the year, the Marshals Division conducts training in various areas and in order to be certified instructors selected personnel attended and completed the following courses: Emergency Vehicle Operators Instructor Course, Emergency Vehicle Operators Simulator Instructor Course, Basic Crises Hostage Negotiators Course, Advanced Crisis Hostage Negotiators Course, High Risk Response/Active Shooter Instructor Training Course.

SRO Training

On December 16, 2011 five probation officers - Emmanuel Cruz, Yvette Leon Guerrero, LouAnna Manibusan, Louie Sunga, and Randall Yasuhiro - were officially sworn in by Chief Justice Carbullido to serve as School Resource Officers ("SRO") in the five public high schools. From the onset of the SRO Program under the Safe and Drug-Free Schools Project, the SROs received extensive training and development to hone their skill set to carry out their roles as law enforcement officers, law-related educators, and informal counselors - the triad concept of the National Association of School Resource Officers (NASRO).

The Marshals Training & Development Section assisted by the Probation Division trained the SROs in courses including report writing, basic firearms training, defensive tactics training, First Aid/CPR, physical conditioning, crowd/riot control, practical problems and search techniques, judicious use of deadly force, high risk response training (active shooter), tactical tracking, tactical firearms simulator (judgmental shooting), day time qualification score, low light conditions firearms familiarization, basic officer survival, impact weapon collapsible baton system, O.C. pepper spray, conducting presentations, and on-the-job orientation.

Alternative Dispute Resolution

In August 2011, the court, with assistance from the U.S. Department of the Interior, sponsored a one week workshop entitled, "Alternative Dispute Resolution: Mediation 101." The Judiciary brought out Mediation instructors from JAMS (formerly known as Judicial Arbitration & Mediation Services), including Catherine Yanni, Esq., a Top 50 California Arbitrator in 2003, 2004, 2010 and 2011. Joining her was JAMS Mediator David Yount, Chief Circuit Mediator for the Ninth Circuit Claudia L. Bernard, and Director of the ADR Program of the Northern District of California Howard A. Herman. Joining them was Guam's own Inafa Maolek founder and top mediator, Patrick Wolff. The week-long program immersed several dozen of Guam and Micronesia's professionals with proven techniques and theories of mediation. After the training, the Supreme Court passed Promulgation Order 006-05-4, extending the court-referred mediation pilot program of prior years, and adopting amended rules for this program. As a result of this training, our courts now have a pool of trained mediators who can provide effective, affordable and confidential mediation services for appropriate cases.

New Appointments

Marshal of the Courts

In March 2011, the Judicial Council approved the appointment of Edward S. Toves as the new Marshal of the Courts. A former police officer with the Guam Police Department, he most recently served as Deputy Marshal Supervisor from 1995 to 2011 and has provided over 22 years of law enforcement service to the Judiciary. Additionally, Toves has served in the Guam Air National Guard for the past 28 years and currently holds the rank of Senior Master Sergeant. He earned an Associate of Science in Criminal Justice in 1992 from Guam Community College.

Compiler of Laws

In August 2011, the Judicial Council approved the appointment of Geraldine Amparo Cepeda as the new Compiler of Laws. She brings several years of writing, researching, and editing experience to her new position, having previously served as the Staff Attorney and a research attorney for the Supreme Court of Guam, a Pro Se Law Clerk at the District Court of Guam, and a law clerk to Justice Simeon R. Acoba, Jr. of the Hawaii Supreme Court and Intermediate Court of Appeals. A graduate of the William S. Richardson School of Law, University of Hawaii, she has also served the Government of Guam as an Assistant Attorney General. Cepeda is also the Executive Director/Librarian of the Guam Law Library.

Chief Probation Officer

In May 2011, the Judicial Council approved the appointment of John Q. Lizama as the new Chief Probation Officer. A member of the Probation Services Division for over 20 years, he most recently served as Deputy Chief Probation Officer from 2001 to 2011. Prior to his employment with the Judiciary, Lizama served as a Parole Officer with the Department of Corrections and as a Youth Service Worker with the Department of Youth Affairs. In addition to his years of law enforcement work, Lizama is a Lieutenant Colonel in the U.S. Army Reserves serving as the Commander for the Theater Support Group for Guam and the CNMI. He earned a certificate in Basic Law Enforcement from the Criminal Justice Academy, Guam Community College, and a B.S. in Criminal Justice in 1987 from the University of Guam.

Director of Policy, Planning & Community Relations

In November 2011, Joshua F. Tenorio was selected as the Director of Policy, Planning & Community Relations.

His public policy experience includes working in the U.S. House of Representatives as a Legislative Assistant to Congressman Robert A. Underwood, Deputy Chief of Staff to Governor Carl T.C. Gutierrez, Director of the Bureau of Planning, Legislative Judiciary Committee Director under Chairman Randy Cunliffe, and Chief of Staff to Vice Speaker Benjamin J.F. Cruz, Retired Chief Justice of Guam. He is a graduate of the University of Guam and is active in many of Guam's non-profit organizations including Pa'a Taotao Tano and FYI Films By Youth Inside.

Responding to the needs of the community

Every day, members of our island community – from citizens, businesses, to governmental agencies – seek the protection of the laws through the trial and appellate courts of the Judiciary of Guam. As the third and co-equal branch of government, the Judiciary is responsible for ensuring that all litigants receive a fair adjudication in their cases. From criminal prosecutions to civil lawsuits, probate proceedings to child support cases, the justices, judges, and court employees continually seek innovative ways to respond to the needs of the community.

The Judiciary is proud of its specialty courts, which address the underlying reasons and causes of criminal behavior as part of the criminal justice process. These courts include the Adult and Juvenile Drug Court, the Mental Health Court, the Family Violence Court, and the newest addition, the DWI Court. Research shows that these programs reduce substance abuse, recidivism and jail overcrowding, more than the traditional system of adjudication, while at the same time reducing crime and victimization.

Certain divisions within the Judiciary, such as the Client Services and Family Counseling Division, the Office of the Public Guardian, and the Sex Offender Registry, focus specific services to litigants and members of our community. These divisions play an important role in ensuring that the Judiciary is adequately addressing the needs of all those who seek justice from our courts.

Therapeutic court innovations

Known as “therapeutic” or “problem-solving” courts, these programs transform the interaction between criminal offenders and the justice system. Rather than the traditional adversarial system, these specialty courts use a non-traditional process that involves a multi-disciplinary approach, including treatment, frequent status hearings, counseling, and graduated sanctions and rewards for participants.

Adult Drug Court

Participants of the Adult Drug Court program are required to undergo intensive counseling and treatment for their substance abuse addictions, are subject to frequent random drug testing, and agree to sanctions (including confinement) for failure to comply with program guidelines. Since its first graduation in January 2005, 230 participants have graduated from the Adult Drug Court program.

In 2011, the program received 75 new eligibility referrals from the Office of the Attorney General, up from 45 referrals in 2010 – an increase of more than 65%. There were 52 active cases in Adult Drug Court I and 27 active cases in Adult Drug Court II. There were 172 individual sessions conducted by Individual, Marriage, and Family Therapists on contract, and 375 group facilitators on contract.

In an evaluation released in August 2011, the Adult Drug Court program was described as “making a significant impact in addressing Guam’s substance abuse problems.” This study, funded by the Bureau of Justice Assistance and conducted by Judge Ronald Ibarra, concluded that the program was “well developed and coordinated” and “has established a solid framework for coordinating the many agencies and services involved to address the needs of program participants.”

The true measure of the program is evident in the comments made by participants who were interviewed as part of the study. These participants stated that they benefited from the program and would recommend that other eligible defendants consider the program. One participant said the program taught him “there is more to life than drugs.” Another said he saw a better way of life while he was in the program.

The Adult Drug Court program changes lives, one participant at a time. The positive effects of the program affect not only the participants, but their families, their friends and in turn, the greater community of our island.

officers, 2 juvenile trackers and 8 part-time individual contract treatment providers.

Since its first graduation in 2003, 249 juveniles successfully completed the program. In 2011, 16 youths graduated from Juvenile Drug Court.

The intensity of supervision in this program is clear from these 2011 statistics:

- 4,183 drug tests conducted
- 1,412 check-ins and personal contacts with the juveniles and their families
- 820 progress hearings
- 116 hearings regarding the violation of court orders
- 150 preliminary hearings/answering hearings/disposition hearings

In 2011, the Juvenile Drug Court supervised 142 youths. In November 2011, the office also partnered with the Guam Department of Education and conducted presentations during the BASTA Anti-Bullying Conference, using the Gang Resistance and Education (“GREAT”) curriculum.

Juvenile Drug Court

Recognizing that substance abuse addictions may develop in youth and that delinquent behavior may stem from substance abuse related issues, the Juvenile Drug Court integrates drug treatment services with the juvenile justice system. Participants in the program undergo weekly court status hearings, random testing, group counseling sessions, life skills workshops, and recreational therapy sessions. The Juvenile Drug Court office consists of 1 coordinator, 4 probation

Adult Drug Court Active Caseload

Mental Health Court

Our Mental Health Court addresses those in our community who are mentally impaired and developmentally disabled – a segment of our population that too often is misunderstood and underserved. In 2011, there were 69 clients in the Mental Health Court, with 51 on the Traditional Track and 18 in the Formal Mental Health Court.

In 2011, the Mental Health Court team continued to work towards finalizing a memorandum of understanding among the stakeholders, including the Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse, Attorney General's Office, Public Defenders/Alternate Public Defenders, Guam Police Department, and the Department of Corrections. The team also evaluated proposed changes to the eligibility process for potential clients. At the same time, the program overcame several challenges in its mission to assist its clients: the severe backlog in screenings due to a shortage of psychiatrists at DMHSA, the sudden and unexpected retirement of its judge, and the pending expiration of the initial two-year grant funding. As this program transitions to fully local funding, the eligibility requirements may be revisited to allow for more participants.

Family Violence Court

The Family Violence Court is an integrated domestic violence court that allows a family to have all civil and criminal cases arising from the same incident heard by a judge specifically trained to address legal issues that arise within families. This successful “One Judge, One Family” model improves caseload efficiency while increasing the services provided to victims and increasing defendant accountability.

In 2011, the Family Violence Court was able to hire a full-time Judicial Coordinator for 2011-13, pursuant to a federal enhancement grant from the Office on Violence Against Women. Under the guidance of the Presiding Judge, the Judicial Coordinator works with members of the Judiciary, the Attorney General's Office, the Guam Police Department, the Public Defender, and other key stakeholders such as Alee Shelter and Erica's House, to develop a coordinated community response to incidents of domestic and family violence on Guam.

Throughout 2011, the Judicial Coordinator focused on developing these community partnerships and improving services provided to victims of family violence. As a result, there was increased training of judicial and community members, an increase in the number of pro se services offered to victims of family violence and domestic violence, and improvements to the processing and information sharing for court-issued protective orders. In addition, the Judicial Coordinator also began an extensive review of old cases to identify recurring issues that prevent cases from being processed in a timely manner, which should result in many meaningful changes to the program. The public can expect continued progress in delivering quicker and more effective justice in the area of family violence.

DWI Court

The newest therapeutic court, the DWI Court, became operational in 2011 under the guidance of Judge Elizabeth Barrett-Anderson. From January to November 2011, 758 felony and misdemeanor DWI cases were processed under the program. Following the therapeutic court model, the DWI requires frequent court hearings and counseling sessions, and random breath and urinalysis testing.

The total number of urinalysis drug tests administered for DWIC clients were:

The total number of breath tests administered for DWI Court clients were:

An average of 298 breath tests and 12 urinalysis drug tests were conducted each month.

An important milestone in the program was hiring a full-time Chuukese interpreter, Ms. Merly Karsom-Crawford. She attends all hearings, assists the defense attorneys and probation officers during their meetings with participants, and administers the Chuukese Alcohol Education Program. Through funding from the Judiciary of Guam, Ms. Karsom-Crawford attended Pacific Judicial Council's Interpreter Training held in Saipan in October 2011.

In light of the expiration of the federal grant, the continued viability of this important program is dependent on securing local funding. Moreover, the DWI Court Final Project report, detailing the success of the first year of the program, recommends assigning additional judges, expanding the court interpreter program to include

In 2011, CSFC staff provided professional consultation and technical assistance with grants and grant applications , such as the Domestic Violence Court Enhancement Project, the Judiciary's Strategic Plan, the Bullying Prevention Program, and the Case Management System; and with program development and ongoing support of the specialty courts for Mental Health, DWI, Family Violence, and Juvenile and Adult Drug Courts. CSFC assisted by providing the treatment specified in the diversionary programs of Domestic Violence Court and the evaluations required in the Drug and Mental Health Courts.

Office of the Public Guardian

"In July 2009, when I first assumed the position of the Public Guardian, there were 53 wards and the OPG consisted of the Public Guardian, a Social Worker and a Legal Secretary. Within the first 2 weeks of my arrival, 2 wards died. And in the District Court case against the Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse (DMHSA) which involved almost all of the OPG wards as part of the target population, 16 contempt orders were issued on July 1, 2001, and much of the ordered activity required the participation of the Public Guardian. This introduction to the office signaled the beginning of the frenetic dynamic that is the OPG. Fortunately, OPG gained another position in 2009, an Office Manager, which has been crucial in the ability of OPG to maintain its regular functions and to tackle new responsibilities and challenges.

The persons who comprise the numbers of OPG wards are not constant – wards die, move, transfer to family guardianships or the OPG is discharged as the guardian. Therefore the increased numbers of OPG wards is just not the difference between the existing number and the current number, but rather a matter of losing some and then gaining that number and more new wards. " Public Guardian Marceline Santos

The OPG began 2011 with 64 wards, and ended the year with 74 wards. The OPG received 61 referrals in 2011; of the 61 referrals, OPG opened files for 42 of the referrals. The remainder of referrals did not result in cases for a number of reasons, such as a conflict of interest, the case was not pertinent to the OPG, or there was not enough information and/or the case was referred elsewhere.

Notable events in 2011, include the OPG audit by the Social Security Administration, which resulted in only one minor discrepancy and the establishment of a dedicated account for only SSA benefits within the Superior Court in compliance with a recommendation from SSA, and the annual Holiday Merienda for the wards, who received gifts and treats donated by Judiciary employees.

*Appointed by Speaker Judith T. Won Pat

There are 36 males and 38 females. 4 OPG wards are dependents of veterans with Military ID cards and 8 are veterans themselves. The age range of the wards is age 13 to 95 with the breakdown as follows:

"Wards of the Office of Public Guardian are among the most vulnerable citizens that the OPG serves. These individuals are usually unable to make decisions that will protect their health, welfare and financial resources. They are often victimized and have very few advocates who have personal knowledge and time to act on their behalf or are not capable of advocating for them. Because these clients do not have personal or community ties or have no family members willing to become guardians, the OPG assumes the responsibility for decisions concerning the care and safety of these incapacitated adults."

Community Outreach/Partnerships

Relay for Life – Team Kotte

The Judiciary Team for the 2011 American Cancer Society's Relay for Life enthusiastically lapped the track from the opening ceremony, parade of teams, luminaria ceremony to the closing ceremony. The theme for 2011 was a Carnival of Colors which brought increased awareness of the different types of cancer through the different colors/ribbons that identify them. Donations collected from the Judiciary employees helped move Team Kotte from Silver Status in 2010 to Gold Status in 2011. The Judiciary employees were generous in their time and selfless contributions to this worthwhile cause.

15th Silent Witness Candlelight Ceremony

Under the chairmanship of Presiding Judge Alberto C. Lamorena III the 15th annual Silent Witness Candlelight Ceremony was held in the Judiciary Atrium. Twenty-six red silhouettes encircled the atrium of the Judiciary. The silhouettes stood as a powerful reminder of those whose lives ended violently in senseless acts of domestic violence. The keynote speaker for the event was Mr. Joe Blas who painfully told his grandson's story. It was the evening of September 3, 1999 when his 11 year old grandson, Herman August Pangelinan Santos, did not call him. Every Thursday, Hermie would call his paternal grandfather to remind him not to forget to pick him up on Friday for his weekend visit. Mr. Blas recounted the search team his family formed as they scoured the jungle, the rivers, the island. Three days later, police found Hermie's remains, stabbed and burned beyond recognition. Mr. Blas described the pain he continues to feel after all these years. He stated so eloquently and powerfully, "I do not want what happened to Hermie to happen to any child. It should not hurt to be a child." The Silent Witness Ceremony is as much about healing as it is about public awareness and prevention. If one man, woman or child can take heed and get out of a violent relationship or change their abusive ways, then it further strengthens the Judiciary's resolve to continue to bring the silent witnesses into the community. It reminds us all about the seriousness and dangerousness of domestic violence and of the work that remains to be done.

Safe and Drug-Free Schools Program

The Judiciary continues to take a proactive stance to reduce the number of juvenile cases in its Courts. The Judiciary plays a preventative and influential role in fostering positive behaviors among our island's youth by teaching youth about the laws that affect them. The project's primary goal is to mitigate the effects of bullying, substance abuse, and violence in schools and the community to prevent youth from entering an already overburdened juvenile justice system amidst austerity and budget constraints. The program includes four projects: bullying prevention, Play By the Rules™ (PBR), Children at Risk (CAR), and the School Resource Officer (SRO) Program.

Bullying Prevention

In 2011, Judiciary and Department of Education staff became provisionally certified trainers of the most globally recognized anti-bullying program - the Olweus® Bullying Prevention Program. A Bullying Prevention Advisory Group (BPAG) was formed with community partners spearheaded by Chief Justice Carbullido, the Governor's Office, the Guam Legislature, and the GDOE. A planning committee, chaired by Supreme Court Justice Robert Torres, First Lady Christine Calvo, and Interim Superintendent Taling Taitano, organized Guam's first bullying conference - B.A.S.T.A. (Bullying Affects Students, Teachers, and All) during the Guam / National Bullying Prevention Month of October. The BASTA Conference took place at the Hyatt Regency Guam on October 25, 26, and 27, 2011. The Youth for Youth Live organization and the Department of Mental Health & Substance Abuse Prevention Branch planned Day One - Youth Day - of the conference, which included participation from nearly 400 students and school chaperones. On Days Two and Three, over two hundred school staff and youth service providers attended the event featuring off island speakers former NBA star Terry Dozier; author of Safe School Ambassadors™ Rick Phillips; relational expert Dr. Iris Pretty-Paint; and bullying law expert, Attorney Charles Leitch. The Judiciary launched the Guam bullying prevention campaign - DUO: Do Unto Others, A Partnership Against Bullying - on October 25, 2011.

School Resource Officer (SRO) Program

In 2011, the Judiciary began implementation of the SRO program by training five special probation officers to be assigned to the five public high schools. The program goal is to improve school safety and prevent crimes and violence. School Resource Officers will serve as law-related educators, informal counselors, positive role models and mentors to students.

Law Week 2011

The Legacy of John Adams: from Boston to Guantanamo

This year's Law Week celebration continued our jurisdiction's proud tradition of educating our island community about the law and legal resources, and reflects the commitment of the Judiciary of Guam, federal District Court, and the Guam Bar Association, to work cooperatively and foster in our citizens an appreciation for the rule of law. Throughout Law Week 2011, the Judiciary of Guam, the District Court of Guam, and the Guam Bar Association co-hosted events designed to engage the community in celebration of our legal system, and to recognize the important legacy of the first American lawyer-president and one of our nation's greatest founders, John Adams. A joint press conference and proclamation signing on April 25, 2011, kicked off Law Week events. In a show of unity, all branches of the Government of Guam issued proclamations declaring May 1, 2011 as Law Day, and April 25-30, 2011 as Law Week 2011.

Fairy Tale Mock Trials

The island's elementary and middle school students filled the courtrooms with colorful costumes and inspiring performances during their mock trial plays, which reinterpreted fairy tales and other stories. The entertaining and educational plays featured headline cases such as The Three Bears v. Golden Locks, State v. Jack Robinson, and Red Riding Hood v. I.M.A. Wolf. An original mock trial script inspired by John Adams' representation of less popular clients highlighted this year's Law Day theme. The Judiciary also held an Open House and invited the public to tours of the Superior Court, and opened courthouse doors to the public.

Islandwide High School Mock Trial Competition

Students from the island's high schools were honored at a special Mock Trial Awards program held during Law Week for their participation in the High School Mock Trial Competition program.

The students from St. Thomas Aquinas went on to represent Guam in the 2011 National Mock Trial Championship in Phoenix, Arizona and placed 27th in the nation. Sophomore Whitney Quinley gained national recognition for her performance and was one of nine students to receive the Outstanding Attorney award.
